Moving Toys in K/1/2

This term K/1/2 has been studying movement. How things move and what forces we use to make things move. To assist our studies, students brought in toys from home to discuss and use in science based experiments. Students took a close look at toys that don’t move easily, toys that assist movement and toys that can move by themselves. We studied friction, pushing, pulling, spinning, sliding, bouncing, rolling and flying, etc. Lessons are flexible and student centred.

Here are some of us with our toys!
Mindcraft meets the classroom — as part of Science Week students in years 7, 9 and 10 Science built an online avatar and explored the Jenolan Caves system.

The online tour is an interactive 3-D one, using technology developed by the CSIRO to reproduce an accurate 3-D image of the cave system. Students explored the cave system, took samples, identified chemicals, and hypothesised on how the caves were formed. Animals such as snakes, wombats and kangaroos that live in and around the cave system were classified using the classification system. Classroom technology is catching up to gaming platforms, and this can only enhance the learning of our students.

The past week has been full of fantastic educational experiences for both students and staff. The highlight of the week was most definitely the Canberra and Thredbo Excursion, from all accounts the student’s behaviour was exemplary and a whole lot of fun and a few falls were had on the slopes. Thank you to the staff who gave up their time to attend this excursion, without staff commitment these things could not happen; Ben Carter, Sue Flagg, Amy Smith and Caroline Stewart, thank you!! I think they may have had just a little bit of fun on the slopes too...

I had the opportunity to visit a number of schools in the Dural area in Sydney last week as part of professional learning experience for Griffith Network Principals. The schools I visited were very different from ours, not only in size but also in the location of the schools. Despite the many differences between the schools it was a tremendous learning opportunity to see how other schools create and inspire learning for their students. I have a lot of ideas circling in my head as to how such opportunities could be applied in our setting. I must admit though, how lovely it was to walk back in the gates of our school on Thursday morning, to breathe in the clean air, to see the wide open spaces and most importantly to see the smiling faces of our children and know that I know everyone of their names and that their teachers know precisely how to cater for each individuals learning needs. What a fantastic school we have!

Every day is a new adventure...

Have a great week,
